

Big Data refers to extremely large datasets that require advanced processing techniques. Big data analytics helps organizations identify trends and improve business strategies. Technologies like Hadoop and Spark are commonly used.