

Data Mining is the process of discovering useful patterns and knowledge from large datasets. It uses statistical and machine learning techniques for analysis. Data mining helps organizations make better decisions.