

Natural Language Processing enables computers to understand and process human language. NLP applications include chatbots, translation systems, and sentiment analysis. It combines linguistics and artificial intelligence techniques.